

The Nautilus

Annabelle Lee

Animals
2021

Nautilus

- The nautilus is a strange animal that lives in the Midnight Zone.
- It is 20 centimeters long and it lives in the Pacific ocean.
- It is white with orange stripes.
- They are in the Cephalopod family, which includes cuttlefish, octopus and clams.
- They are very endangered, their shells sell for a high price on Ebay and other selling websites.

Diet and Predators.

- They have many predators, such as sharks, octopus, triggerfish and snappers.
- The nautilus has a variety of foods, like shrimp, crabs, dead animals, and sometimes other nautiluses!
- It eats through its beak like jaw, which is located in its tentacles around the front.

Interesting facts

- They do not have anything to protect them besides their shell.
- It does not have good eyesight, but it does have a great sense of smell.
- They sell for a high price.
- They are possible to keep them as pets.

Click on my research paper to read more!

