

Sea Turtles

Henry Walters

Sea Turtles habitat

- A sea turtle has a triangular head and a with a beak for its mouth.
- It has two front fins and two back fins the fins are on each corner of the ovalish body it has a shell on top of its body with ruby shapes on top of the shell.
- Sea turtles inhabit subtropical seas throughout the world. They prefer warm water more then cold.
- They thrive in tropical areas as well.

Sea Turtles Diet and Predators

- A sea turtle eats small crabs, shrimps, jellyfish, and a bunch of plants in the sea.
- A sea turtle has a few predators known as sharks, boxer, jellyfish, coral snakes, killer whales.
- A sea turtle is also scared to leave its eggs because of seagulls, blue crabs, and people stepping on their legs.

Interesting facts about Sea Turtles

- Did you know the biggest sea turtle is 1,560 pounds and 6 feet long.
- A group of sea turtles is called a clutch.
- The oldest known sea turtle fossil is about 120 million years old.
- Did you know a sea turtle can't retract their limbs into their body like a land

Click on my research paper to read more!

